One in Hospital, Other in Jail

Two Newburgh Men in Accident Tuesday Night at Viaduct—One Held for Grand Jury for Driving While Intoxicated—Other, Badly Injured in City Hospital.

Raymond Kober of No. 123 Washington street, Newburgh, this morning was held to await the action of the grand jury on a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated Tuesday night, while his companion, George Van Amburg, also of Newburgh, is in the Kingston City Hospital badly injured. Judge Robert G. Groves fixed the amount of Kober's bail at $2,500.

About 11 o'clock Tuesday evening police headquarters received a call for the ambulance to the Washington avenue viaduct, and Officers Simpson and Van Buren were sent there. Sergeant Hanley also detailed Officers Camp and Shoemaker to the scene.

When the officers arrived there they found Kober and Van Amburg both injured and apparently under the influence of liquor. Both were rushed to the hospital where it was found that Kober had sustained cuts about the face and head, which were dressed. He was then placed under arrest by Officer Simpson and conveyed to the county jail for the remainder of the night.

Van Amburg was the more seriously injured. It is feared his skull is fractured. An X-ray will be taken of the injury. During the night Van Amburg was delirious and the police were forced to station an officer at his bedside until morning to prevent him from harming himself.

According to the police records, Dr. A. A. Stern who examined both men, said that they were under the influence of liquor.

From what the police could learn, Kober was driving the automobile and the pair were driving over the temporary bridge across the Esopus creek. They failed to negotiate the turn in the road and the car crashed into a concrete pier and was wrecked. This temporary bridge and detour were made necessary by the erection of a new steel bridge over the creek to replace the present structure. The detour and bridge were opened to traffic Monday.

When he was arraigned before Judge Groves in police court, Kober waived the court that he desired to waive examination and await the action of the grand jury. "Can I arrange for bail?" he asked.

"You may have to face a charge of manslaughter, if your companion in the hospital dies," replied Judge Groves, "and for that reason I will fix the amount of bail at $2,500."

Kober telephoned to friends in Newburgh to get some one to furnish bail for him.

Two Escaped From Napanoch

Warren H. Payne of Kingston Escapes With Theodore Davenport—Payne Charged With a Number of Offenses.

Warren H. Payne, 27 years of age, of Kingston, wanted for a number of crimes, among them the corruption of morals of little Dorothy Faller, of Middletown, and a statutory offense against Bertha Heisler, 15, of Kingston, who has been serving time in the state institution for defective delinquents at Napanoch since June 8, when he was captured near Middletown, is still at large, following his escape from the reformatory Friday afternoon, together with another inmate, Theodore Davenport.

The two, taking advantage of the fact that there were several hundred visitors on the grounds at the time, secreted themselves in a rubbish pile upon the grounds which was later removed to the dump, from where it is believed the men made their escape. A strict watch is being kept by authorities in this and adjoining counties, and it is believed the men can not long remain at large.

A description of the men pictures Payne as 27 years of age, 5 feet 4 1/2 inches in height, 112 pounds in weight, with dark complexion, brown hair, mixed with gray. He was clad in light khaki pants and shirt. Theodore Davenport is 25 years of age, 5 feet 7 inches in height, weighs 150 pounds, has brown hair, blue eyes and dark complexion. Dressed the same as Payne. Both are Americans.

Payne was committed to the reformatory on June 23 to await ultimate trial when his mental condition should warrant the step. His list of crimes is a long one. When he was apprehended in June he admitted while being charged with the corruption of morals of the little Faller girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Faller of 170 Monahan avenue, Middletown; that he ran away with Bertha Heisler of Kingston. The Heisler girl was later turned over to the county agent for dependent children for disposition. Payne had once before served a term in prison, when he was sentenced to six months in the county jail by Justice A. H. F. Seeger after he had been found guilty of third degree assault upon an Otseville girl. He was later sentenced to serve 13 months in Napanoch following a charge of assault preferred by a girl in this city. He was paroled from this sentence ten months ago.

Davenport had been a well behaved inmate, Supervisor Thayer said, and was to have been paroled shortly, but his escape will make him liable to a lengthened term, when caught.

Stroll Stumble on Ruhr Evacuation

French Anxious to Safeguard Alsace-Lorraine Industries—Germans Dubious of Speedy Settlement.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Lindsay, Ont., Aug. 13.—Mrs. George Fanning, who strangled her two children on an improvised gallows yesterday and attempted to end her own life by slashing her throat, was expected to recover today.

George Fanning, the father, found his wife sitting on her bed with blood pouring from a knife wound in her neck. He called for his two children Louis, 8, and Bernice, 7. Receiving no answer, he searched the house and found them in the next room, side by side on the bed, with a tightly drawn cord about the throats of each. Both were dead.

They had been hanged by the mother from a plank on the top of a cement cistern in the potato bin. Later she had cut them down, carried them upstairs and dressed them in their best clothes, laying the bodies on the bed. Then she applied the knife to her own throat.

"I don't know why she did it," Fanning said. "She was always kind to them and loved them dearly."

Klan Organizer Seeks Members

Addressed a Meeting in Pythian Hall Tuesday Evening—Those Present Pledged to Secrecy—Outdoor Initiation Coming Soon.

An organizer of the Ku Klux Klan was in Kingston Tuesday evening and addressed a meeting of about three hundred men in Pythian Hall on the aims and purposes of the organization. At the close of his address a number present, it is said, signified their intention of uniting with the organization.

The meeting was on an invitation basis and those present were pledged to secrecy.

Those who signified their intention of uniting with the Klan will be notified later to be present at some place outside the city, where initiation ceremonies will be held including the usual cross burning.

This was the first meeting for obtaining members for the Klan here. There have been several meetings in other parts of the county. One was held recently near Stone Ridge and another near Highland. The regular meeting night of the local organization will not be decided upon until after preliminary organization is completed.

Andrew Paid.

Andrew Gergeen of Jersey City, who has been employed by a state road contractor, was picked up drunk on Broadway Tuesday evening by Officer Keresman. This morning Judge Groves fined Andrew $5. He paid.

Normal People Have Phantasies

Says Chicago Alienist in Trial of Youthful Slayers of Franks Boy—Not Evidence of Mental Disease.

Criminal Court, Chicago, Aug. 13.—Two alienists for the state, of comparative distinction and renown with those of the defense, told Judge Caverly today that they examined Nathan F. Leopold and Richard A. Loeb soon after they confessed the murder of little Bobby Franks and that they found "absolutely no evidence of mental disease" on the part of either collegian.

Dr. Hugh T. Patrick was first of the state's alienists to start tearing down the carefully built structure of "mental disease" and emotional inferiority, which the young slayers' lawyers have put in their defense.

Dr. Patrick delivered his opinion soon after court opened this morning. The defense allowed it to go unchallenged.

The old familiar "hypothetical" questions that have featured every court battle alienists ever engaged in, rang through Judge Caverly's court room, and it was in response to such roundabout questioning that the opinion of the note Chicago psychiatrist was secured.

Lawyers for the state presented Dr. Patrick with a carefully prepared list of such questions, which contained all of the characteristic and so-called eccentricities of both Loeb and Leopold, as set forth in the reports of the defense alienists, and in each instance Dr. Patrick returned the same reply:

"I see no evidence of mental disease from that."

"Nothing in my observations of the defendants or in the added data you mention, show and indication of mental disease, aside from the commission of crime."

"Anything abnormal in these phantasies?" asked Assistant State Attorney S. Barbato.

"No," replied the alienist. "All normal people have phantasies, usually after they go to bed. I know that is when I have mine. Any person with an active mentality has phantasies."

"The other night, for instance, I had phantasies about being on the witness stand. I conjectured questions that might be asked me. Lawyers have phantasies about their practice and the law; golfers have been known to have phantasies about their game."

Oddly enough, both "Babe" and "Dicky" appear more interested in the state alienists who pronounce them sane than in their own doctors who called them insane by various roundabout methods.

They shifted and adged in their seats as their own doctors described them as two little boys wandering around in the dreamland of childhood, gripped by childish phantasies and soporific delusions. The diagnosis did not fit somehow with their own conception of themselves as two serious young intellectuals, who, but for the accidental dropping of a pair of glasses would have committed a crime so complete in detail and so perfect in execution that it would have baffled the master detectives' minds of the country.

Locate Original Cradle in Nevada

Scientists Make Important Discovery Which May Show Western State as Seat of Civilization's Cradle.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Lehman Cave, Nevada, Aug. 13.—The theory that Nevada was the cradle of civilization is expected to be advanced as the result of excavations being made near here by Dr. Ben Schappelle and Dr. Peter Franklin of the University of Nevada, who in two caverns lined with hieroglyphic pieces, believe they have unearthed an underground city which preliminary discoveries indicate existed here ages ago.

The excavations in debris filled caverns to date have unearthed rock writing on the lime formation which resembles both the Aztec and Egyptian pictographs. Some of the pictographs are covered by great lime stalactites which denote age.

Dr. Schappelle declared today the discovery may be considered one of the most important of the century. Articles found by him establish the pottery line 300 miles north of that determined by archaeologists heretofore. A figurine of gouged stone shows the bulging eyes and the head of an idol, which according to the archaeologist, is undeniably Aztec in origin. Hieroglyphic pieces already uncovered show that the extinct race which made them were sun worshippers as were the Toltecs of Mexico and the Mayas of Central America.

Just across the narrow canyon from the caverns, high up on the mountain side, is the entrance to an underground river. The river is about 90 feet below the level of the surrounding surface streams and flows toward the new caverns which are also in line with Lehman Cave.

The air in the underground channel is pure and fresh and it is thought that when excavations in the canyon are complete an underground city, with a river flowing through the center of it, will be found.

Klan Picked Only One Winner

Republican Candidate for Governor in Ohio Overwhelmingly Defeats Candidate Endorsed by Klan—Democratic Klan Candidate Wins—Endorsed Both Candidates for Lieutenant Governor.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Columbus, Ohio, Aug. 13.—Former Governor Harry L. Davis has again won the Republican nomination for governor and Governor A. V. Donahey easily distanced his only opponent in the Democratic race, returns from 5,940 of the 8,303 precincts in the state, as received and tabulated at the office of Secretary of State Thad H. Brown, early today disclosed.

The vote was: Burke 29,515; Cable 20,684; Davis 115,071; Durand 42,666; Harris 21,847; Sleher 63,076; Smith 10,435; White 59,933; Beatty (Democrat) 30,536; Donahey 124,573.

Governor Donahey, making no campaign, had defeated his anti-Klan foe, James C. B. Beatty, of East Liverpool, by a vote of more than four to one, while Davis with two-thirds of the state reported, had a lead of 45,995 over Joseph B. Sleher, of Akron, active-Klansman and supported by the hooded order in the Klan stronghold.

The Klan, although defeated in its attempt to name the Republican gubernatorial candidate, had apparently fared well in the make-up of the state tickets of both parties. Charles H. Lewis and Earl D. Bloom, both Klan endorsed, were named as candidates for the lieutenant governorship by Republicans and Democrats respectively.

State Auditor Joseph T. Tracey, State Treasurer Harry S. Day and Supreme Court Judge James Robinson were other winning Republicans to have Klan endorsements.

Bad Weather May Delay Flyers

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

On board U. S. Cruiser Richmond, off Reykjavik, Iceland, Aug. 13.—(By wireless)—The U. S. Cruiser Raleigh, patrolling off the Greenland coast, reported this afternoon that weather conditions had turned bad.

Lieutenant Lowell Smith and Lieutenant Erik Nelson, American "round-the-world" pilots, may not be able to hop off for Angmagssalik tomorrow morning as they had planned.

The Raleigh has been caught in the ice and cannot move for any great distance because of danger to her propellers.

If it is possible for Smith and Nelson to jump to Angmagssalik tomorrow they hope to reach Iglood Friday, departing thence for Indian Harbor, Labrador, Sunday.

The most vigilant measures for protection are being taken. They provide that the Richmond shall sail tonight instead of tomorrow morning. She is to take up a station half way to Angmagssalik. After the planes pass the Richmond will steam to Indian Harbor.

The Raleigh, Milwaukee and the destroyers will be anchored about 90 miles apart.

21 Suitors Punch Twenty-Second

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Shanghai, Aug. 13.—Death toll in the terrific floods that have swept vast areas of North China is extremely heavy, possibly reaching 50,000, according to reports received here today from devastated provinces.

Millions are homeless. In the Kalgan district it is estimated 4,000 persons lost their lives in the breaking of dikes.

Thousands of villages were inundated and great tracks of farming lands flooded.

Two thousand villages in the Tien-Tsin region were wholly or partially submerged.

Advices from the devastated regions say that the authorities fear pestilence and famine.

Soldiers are being used for relief work.

Damage was greatest in the provinces of Chi-Li and Kwang-Tung. Tremendous damage was done to livestock and crops. The monetary loss is incalculable the reports stated.

The Pei-Ho river was in flood and for a time the city of Tien-Tsin, with its great foreign population, was in danger.

Floods followed heavy rains and the melting mountain snows.

But it was only because he punched winsome widow in the eye—He Has Two Ribs Yet Intact—Widow in Jail—Six in Hoosegow.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Aug. 13.—Mrs. Josephine Arsenki, a buxom Brooklyn widow, intended to ride to church in a hack today to be married, but instead she and her five children were in jail.

At the same time, 22 of her suitors were in bandages and the Arsenki home was a wreck, all because they forsook honeyed words to woo her with fists, chair legs, pokers, cups, saucers and bric-a-brac.

"Twenty two of her suitors" does not mean these were all the wooers she had. Those were the 22 from among a large part of Brooklyn's population that the gentle widow considered eligible. Since she became a widow a year ago and fell into a tidy bundle of life insurance, dashing gentlemen of all descriptions have been suing for her hand.

The magnetic widow could not take a step day or night without meeting a suitor, so late last night she invited the eligible 22 into her home to state their qualifications, both personal and financial.

Among the swains was a certain Gudiski, who likes a highball. From accounts the suitors gave police today, it seems Michael found a still in the widow's home and did the honors.

Everyone had a drink, and another, and soon all were protesting their fiery love for the beautiful beneficiary of the insurance policy. Mrs. Arsenki herded them into line to let each have his say-so. Michael was at the end. Deciding he had been slighted, he so forgot himself as to poke Mrs. Arsenki in one eye.

Several suitors proceeded to bruise him. All took a hand. There aren't enough places on Michael for 22 men, to punch at one time, so they fell to walloping one another.

Windows were broken, furniture splintered and bones ditto. Gudiski was badly mashed. His skull was broken in two places and he has only two ribs that are intact.

A great crowd gathered outside the Arsenki home. Police reserves came and got inside only after a half an hour's battle. They arrested the widow, took her children along to comfort her, and also put six of the suitors in the hoosegow.

Woman Escapes Drowning.

A near drowning occurred in the Esopus creek near Glenier Monday afternoon when Miss Anna Cassidy of Brooklyn, a boarder at Pleasant Valley Inn, was going down for the third time, when she was rescued by a couple of young men. Klan Picks Another Lower.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Little Rock, Ark., Aug. 13.—Complete returns from the state Democratic-primary election today gave Tom Torrell, gubernatorial candidate, a total of 14,044 votes, or a lead of 3,405 over his nearest opponent, Lee Casort, Ku Klux Klan candidate.

Takes Much Time On Next Speech

Democratic Candidate Davis to Spend Next Few Weeks Preparing Speech—Probably Will Work Out of Chicago Headquarters.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Aug. 13.—John W. Davis, Democratic presidential candidate, arrived in New York today from Clarkburg, West Va., where formal dedication ceremonies were held Monday night.

Davis went immediately upon arrival to Democratic headquarters at the Murray Hill Hotel.

Davis expects to spend the next few weeks at his home in Locust Valley, L. I., working on an address to be delivered in Columbus, Ohio, August 26, at the meeting of the Ohio state Democratic convention.

Senator Key Pittman, of Nevada, was expected in New York today as tomorrow. He will confer with Davis at Locust Valley on the proposed western "sawing around the creek."

It was intimated that when Davis went to Columbus he would include Chicago in his itinerary and possibly speak there. Reports about Murray Hill Hotel headquarters also were to the effect that the candidate probably would spend much of his time after the Columbus address working out of Chicago headquarters.

Accompanying the nominee from Clarkburg were Mrs. Davis, John E. Norin, personal publicity director; J. H. Nye, bodyguard; and C. M. Backway and George Zengerle, secretaries.

Missing Girl Was In Rhinecliff

Left Home on Account of Unwelcome Attention of Married Man and First Came to Kingston.

Miss Alberta Biber, who had been missing since July 16 from her home, No. 3,105 Park avenue, the Bronx, New York city, walked in police headquarters at Poughkeepsie on Tuesday and asked help in returning home.

Practically all the time she has been missing has been spent at a hotel at Rhinecliff, she said. She left home, she explained, because of the unwelcome attentions of a married man and had a little more than $30 when she started. She went first to Midland Beach, then to Kingston and finally to Rhinecliff.

On Monday she mailed a letter to her mother from Poughkeepsie, in which she said:

"Please do not be worried about me as I am all right. I dropped a letter from Kingston two weeks ago, and was sure you got it O. K. Please drop this case, as I will let you know later. Was surprised at the excitement. Love,

"BERT."

Detective Sergeant Mary H. Hamilton of the New York police department, who has been supervising the search for Miss Biber, traced the young woman to a hotel at Rhinecliff but found she had left there hurriedly on Saturday afternoon. She had been last seen tramping along the road toward Poughkeepsie, but rode part of the distance in a motor bus.

She returned to New York city Tuesday afternoon with Detective Sergeant Hamilton. Miss Biber is twenty-seven years old. There was no charge against her but her disappearance had been reported by her family to the Bureau of Missing Persons of the New York police department.

WOMAN PLAYED BIG ROLE IN LOEB'S LIFE.

"Angel Faced Dickie" Loeb, one of the youthful slayers of kidnaped Robert Franks in Chicago, told the defense attorneys who examined him that his first nurse, Miss Ann Struthers, now Mrs. Bishop, of Boston, played a big role in his life. Mrs. Bishop, pictured here with "Dickie" when he was a mere child, was strict with him, the boy said, and he learned early in life to be to her to avoid punishment. She did much to push him forward in his studies, and his youthful precociousness may have been due to her rapid advancement of him in his studies.

Must Fight Rats And Diphtheria

Board of Health Decides to Continue Battle Against Diphtheria but Postpone Action on Extirpation of Rodents.

Since the work of inoculating school children with toxin-anti-toxin has been inaugurated in Kingston there have been but few diphtheria cases reported in the city. That fact was made plain at the regular monthly meeting of the board of health Tuesday evening by Dr. Daniel Connelly, city health officer, whose plan to hold again a series of clinics for children, both of pre-school age and those attending school, was unanimously approved by the board. Mayor Morris Block presided at the session with Commissioners Charles L. McBride, Frank Kaufman, Dr. Fred Hubbs and Mrs. Thomas J. Hickey present.

Dr. Connelly outlined his plans for carrying on the fight against diphtheria, and said that early next month circulars would be sent to all of the schools, public and parochial, calling attention to the clinics to be held where the toxin-anti-toxin would be given. This year Dr. Connelly said he would also try to get mothers interested in the question and allow the children of pre-school age to be inoculated.

There had been no ill effects reported from those inoculated last year. It was not compulsory on the part of the parents to have their children inoculated, but Dr. Connelly believed that when they became aware of the fact that those who were inoculated were able to ward off diphtheria, they would be glad to have their children attend the clinics to be held at the city hall.

Need Drive on Rats.

Dr. Connelly also called attention to the fact that a professional rat catcher had paid a visit to the board of health office that morning and wanted the board to endorse his work. He had left with Dr. Connelly an endorsement he had received from the health officer of Newburgh. The board discussed the matter and were of the opinion that while it would be a good thing to rid the city of rats, that they were not in a position to recommend any one as qualified to do the work.

During the course of the discussion Commissioner McBride brought out the fact that for over thirty years he had been waging an incessant war on the rodents. When an old barn was torn down to make room for the present Keeney theater building on Wall street, the rats that inhabited the barn had sought other lodgings in the stores in that vicinity.

For the past three years the Krege store had used a ferret with good results, and had then turned the animal over to Mr. McBride, who had used it in his Wall street drug store. The ferret has not been seen in several days but evidence shows that it is still working.

At his Broadway store Mr. McBride also waged the battle of extermination. Rats had entered his building from adjoining buildings and for years he had been kept busy plugging up the tunnels made in the walls by the rodents as they traveled from the other buildings into his store. He had even used broken glass to plug up the holes and had wedged the glass in tightly with a hammer, but it had been removed from the holes by the rats without any trouble. Now he was using cement in plugging the holes.

During the many years that he had waged war on rats, he said that he had used every kind of poison he could think of, and had managed to keep the rat population down to reasonable numbers. Commissioner McBride said he believed the only solution of the rat problem was a concerted drive by all of the citizens of the city. "The great trouble with all of us," he said, "is that we don't get busy exterminating rats until they become a nuisance. Then poison and other remedies are used and the rats move on to other quarters."

Mrs. Thomas J. Hickey said that she received some of the unwelcome visitors from the water department barn in the rear of her residence. Mayor Block also had been troubled with rats at his factory but by judicious use of rat poison had gotten rid of them.

While the board discussed the question of rats at length the board took no action on Commissioner McBride's suggestion of a concerted drive on rats.

Mr. Pick Granted Permit.

Dr. Connelly reported that he had visited the old Sweeney property in Wilbur, which is now used by Gustave Pick as a boarding school for children. He had found the property well kept and conditions satisfactory. There were twenty-one children now being kept at the home there. Mr. Pick's permit, which had been issued for a year, had expired and the board granted him a permit to maintain a children's boarding house for another year.

Visited Milk Dealers.

Dr. Connelly also reported that he had paid a visit to the milk dealers of the city and had found conditions satisfactory. He also reported that James Jordan, proprietor of the Port Ewen Dairy, had leased the Frank Modica place on Hasbrouck avenue, near the city hall, for a milk station. Mr. Jordan's milk station in Port Ewen had not met the requirements of the milk code and for that reason he had been notified to secure another place to handle his milk. Mr. Jordan had stated he was very willing to comply with all requirements, and Mr. Connelly believed that Jordan by leasing his new place on Hasbrouck avenue would be able to handle his milk as required by the sanitary code of the health board.

Other Matters.

The question of vaccinations for the officers of the health board was left to the employees to arrange the dates so that the work of the board could be carried on without interruption.

Whitewash Fence To Make It Strong

State Highway Department Spends Summer Months Applying Whitewash to Rotten Fence White Necessary Repair Work Waits.

Kingston, N. Y., Aug. 13.

Mr. Editor of The Freeman.

There are a little over three months of the summer in which a macadam road can be repaired by using the hard oil for that purpose as now used. Such repairs must have hot, dry weather to set properly and a rain on the work before the oil has set, ruins the work and repairs on cold, wet roads will not set up hard.

The Kingston to Saugerties state road is such a road. This spring the patrol gang as soon as the weather would permit, began repairs and they have put about two of the ten miles to Saugerties in good repair. The remaining eight miles is in just as much need of new shoulders as the two miles finished. The macadam in the center of the road is perfect.

Now, with the best weather of the hot waning season for working before the repair gang, they have been repairing the dangerous shoulders and set to strengthening the rotten old state road fence with a new coat of whitewash. This could have been put on at almost any time except freezing weather.

About two years ago an army truck slipped off the state road just north of Glencliff. It took three days to get the truck on the road. Temporary repairs were made to the walled embankment that holds up the road bed. The Wolven's truck came along last year, struck the same damaged spot and went over the bank. Harry Abels's car was being towed to Saugerties, accidentally overran its tow-rope and shot down the steep bank into the Esopus creek at this point. Long before this, the Rev. S. Van New of Flatbush Reformed Church, went over the same bank on a dark, stormy night with horse and wagon and spent the night there with a broken arm till help came in the morning.

Temporary repairs were made each time. Now the Hov truck is forced against the rotten state road fence at the identical spot where the other wrecks had occurred. It found the same hole in the embankment and landed at the bottom of the steep bank with a big load of goods and one man loses a leg and another man is seriously injured.

If there had been a parting strip painted in the middle of the road at this point it is not likely this accident would have occurred. The great minds who direct the state highway work may think if they had strengthened the fence with this new coat of paint the accident would not have happened. But to taxpayers and road builders who know how work should be done, it looks as if the road to Saugerties will be left at the end of the season, in just the same state of disrepair as was described in The Freeman last year by

Dainty Fabric Is in Milady's Favor

Organdie, Dotted Swiss, Muslin and Other Materials, Fashion Leaders.

There was once a homely saying that in France the rustle of a petticoat meant silk, in other countries starch. That, says a fashion writer in the New York Times, was before the days when silk petticoats, silk frocks and stockings became as common as they had once been rare, and before people of a sturdier standard and those of lighter type had been harmonized by cosmopolitan fashions. This popular notion has since swept French and American styles to a similar conclusion, which is that muslin frocks belong to Americans, and that they are out of date, their crisp frilliness dimmed by the luster of French silk and tulle.

The muslin frock in all its sheer freshness and its many variants has been for generations the American woman's charming own, dainty, coquettish, eternally feminine; and many a woman of fashion of the older regime has regretted that her granddaughter could not know the pleasure of dressing in flowered "French" organdie, dotted swiss, book muslin, or the smooth, cool linen lawn. They were the accepted summer dress, as much for town as for country wear.

The muslin frock disappeared with the muslin girl. Athletics, the motor-car, sports, life in the open, made demand for simpler lines, more substantial fabrics and much of the homespun idea for day wear. Once the new silhouette was established, the picture changed, and the muslin girl became the tailored girl, mannish, severe, dashing, "top style" for the vigorous day, and the chiffon girl for the evening. Flannels, twills, heavy linens and loose-woven silks, treated much as the tailor employs stuffs for men's wear, have been for a dozen years the proper thing for informal occasions, while for dressy times all the newest weaves in starchless voiles, crepes, chiffons, marquisettes, silks, satins and brocades were required. The ruffled muslin passed with the crinoline, the floppy leghorn, lace mitts and long curls. The new version is a picture of slim body, athletic limb, curveless bodice and classic draperies.

The American vision was lost and the Parisian pattern was copied to all of the extremes, with many extravagant indulgences in exotic phases of foreign influence. All of the effect of satiety has been experienced within a season, and gradually but unmistakably the quaint styles in dress and accessories have been coming into view. Costume affairs in fashionable society and exhibitions of artistic costuming in studios and in the theater have recalled to the older and shown to the younger generation the beauty, the romance and the tradition in dress characteristic of ourselves, and couturiers have been alert in responding to the suggestion.

Winsome New Materials. No season within merchants' memory has brought out a greater number of original styles in new materials. The woman who is able to gratify her desire in this summer's wardrobe has a bewildering collection from which to choose. Simplicity more simple than ever before is the keynote, especially in the handsomest evening gowns seen at smart affairs on the other side, the conspicuous attraction being in the goods of the dress. Trimming on these formal gowns is of exceptional richness; ostrich, which retains its intense popularity, and metal lace and embroidery, each sparingly and effectively used on flat surfaces.

The frock that answers the purpose of the old-time sheer muslin is of crepe, designated by many names—voile, printed silk, marquisette, chiffon in over so many grades—all of which have been seen in the early season's models. These are built for the most part on inconspicuous plans, though the latest importations illustrate many new features, indicating quite plainly the direction in which the fashion tide will set at the opening of the coming season.

The printed crepes and silks are very modish in the straight tunic over a close skirt of contrasting color, or outlined with a band of plain goods. This model, for which the woman of the slender silhouette has a passion, is particularly happy when done in the silks of bold pattern, notably the conventional palm leaf and the other designs that are among this year's novelties.

In the draped models there is a following of whims and moods, with the fullness drawn forward to the front, to be caught directly in the middle front, hanging lower than the hem of the gown, and with flounces, straight or circular; godets, scarf draperies, sashes, girdles and plaited or flaring skirts. Apparently several styles, greatly diversified, are being presented, as if to sense in advance the popular choice and establish a mode.

All of these and other designs are attractively shown in models of much originality and style, demonstrating the values of the new materials. For the one-piece or tunic frock for morning and all-day utility the sponge in cotton or silk or a mixture, made in checks, stripes and plain goods, is a novelty that has taken rather strongly. Ratine, in silk, cotton or silk and wool, is another new weave, rough in finish, loosely woven and smart, especially when it is made into a sports or beach frock.

Rich Formal Gowns.

In the more formal gowns the embroidered silks and flat crepes, embroidered solid, are exceedingly handsome, and are so costly that one such creation in a wardrobe is cherished and reserved for gala occasions. Bengaline, all silk, or silk and wool, is another revival of an old-time favorite, of which some stunning French models are built, with simplicity of lines, soft, scant drapery and a splash, a band or motif of colorful needlework. These are charming in the gentle shades, beige, maize, gray, powder blue, against which the crepe is so much used in peasant embroidery make a striking note.

Reverting to the sheer frock, the up-to-date version of the organdie, there are new voiles of gossamer lightness, on which are printed the most enchanting patterns of flowers, butterflies, birds and many another fantasy. These have something of the sheer beauty of organdie but lack stiffness and may be beautifully draped or flounced, though the elaborate designs are shown to best advantage when they are gathered or slightly draped.

The qualifying appellation of "chiffon" is attached to many of the latest types of thin dress goods. There are chiffon voile, crepe chiffon, chiffon cloth and chiffon. Some are printed in delicate, beautifully colored patterns; some are plain or shaded in rainbow tints or gradations of one color.

Flock dot muslin is really a dotted swiss, woven in many "wash colors" and the English prints are the real novelty of the year. These are in prim, modest patterns, invariably small and geometric, in black and white, gray and white, violet or blue and white, scarlet and beige. Their being hand-blocked is a guarantee of the durability of their colors.

The craze for hand-blocked, indelibly printed cottons is well illustrated in the India prints, which are sold by the yard and might easily be mistaken for curtains or bed coverings. They are oriental in pattern and riotous in colors blended and assorted with the canny skill of an ancient art. Some of these are reproductions of the printed spreads and hangings which several of the more important shops have imported, and they are unique and amusing as dress makings.

In at least a score of years there has not been more beauty and artistic value in dress materials and design than this season has presented.

The success of this outing was due in a large measure to the Catholic Daughters of America, who furnished cakes and served the luncheon and to the following who furnished cars for the ride: Mrs. Tancroft, Thomas J. O'Hara, William O'Reilly, James Byrne, William B. Byrne, John Reynolds, William V. Diamond, Charles Van Etten, August Steuding, S. Cohen's Sons, Southard-Belcher Inc., Mark Spachard, Joseph Herbert, Chevrolets at Fleischmanns.

The Chevrolet team of this city will represent Fleischmanns for the balance of the season. The owner of the Fleischmanns team and Manager Wilbur completed the arrangements Tuesday. The first game to be played will be Sunday, the Saugerties Chevrolet team furnishing the attraction.

WORK "UNDER FIRE" FOR NEW MEMBERS

Twelve hundred new members secured in the period elapsing between the rising and setting of the sun was the achievement of Oklahoma American Legionnaires recently in a membership drive. Their drive was intensive and along the following lines:

Assembly was begun at 6 a. m. At 6:30 Legionnaires were folding their napkins after a breakfast served by the Auxiliary at the Legion home. At 7 the workers went forward into battle amidst the patter of real machine guns and the roar of real cannons. All through the day the machine guns were in operation. Each hour the fire whistle sounded, assembly call was blown and a bomb hurled into the skies, to explode 200 feet above the earth.

On the walls at "General Headquarters" a chart was placed containing a series of trenches. Each man's name was listed in the first trench and his status and line of advance during the day noted by a red thumb tack. When the objective was attained by any Legionnaire he was crowned with an Indian headgear and thrown in as a reinforcement in the salient where the line was weaker. By this plan every Legionnaire's valor under fire was recorded.

Cars were commandeered to seek out prospects living in the country where many an ex-service man was made a Legionnaire by the barter principle of exchange—chickens, eggs and pork in many instances being accepted in lieu of the necessary three bucks membership dues.

Police patrols and fire carts were pressed into service to "bring in" the handcuffed prisoners.

The Legion band and bugle corps played on the streets during the day. Airplanes were used in distributing literature. One thousand theater tickets were thrown from high buildings. Booths were maintained at prominent corners where many a thirsting ex-service man was near-beered and pretreated into the Legion.

Reports of the progress of the drive were radio-broadcast throughout the day.

NEXT BIG FIGHTS

"THE Universal Service Law will be the next big fight of the Legion," was the prophecy of John R. Quinn, national commander of the American Legion, at a dinner given in his honor at Spokane, Wash., recently. The commander of the Legion declared: "Within three years we will have as big a fight on for this measure as we have had for the adjusted compensation. There will be other fights," the fighting commander of the Legion emphasized. "Children are being taught in schools of the country that military training is all wrong; it will be the Legion's policy to fight this anti-preparedness propaganda to the last trench."

"The next war, if there must be a next war, will be fought with every one suffering on an equal basis of sacrifice, and will not be as past wars, a condition of hardship for many and profit for the few."

New Officers Chosen at Georgia Convention

J. R. Fitzpatrick of Columbus was elected Georgia commander of the American Legion at the closing sessions of the sixth annual convention held in Savannah, Ga., recently. The election was made unanimous after Alexander Fawcett of Savannah withdrew from the race. Other officers elected are: State adjutant, M. C. McMullen, Columbus; senior vice commander, H. A. Carithers, Windsor; junior vice commander, Leroy Cowart, Statesboro; chaplain, John Hogan, Salvation Army, Rome; historian, Miss Elizabeth Grimes, Atlanta; state treasurer, James A. To Teach Flag Rules in All Texas Schools

Standard flag rules are to be taught in all the schools in the state of Texas, as a result of a campaign waged by the Texas department of the American Legion for the introduction into the schools of a flag etiquette code. Flag etiquette is to be made a part of the course in civics. The state textbook commission authorized the adoption of the flag code following the appearance before it recently of the state commander of the Legion, who submitted the code to the commission along with arguments showing why it should be adopted.

Magneto Lift Tools

Nail sets and other small tools, when they drop between studdings or into other places where it is impossible to get to them, can be found and lifted off by lowering a magnet into such places with a cord. Hand axes and hammers can also be lifted in the same way with a strong magnet.

LEGION MAN MAYOR OF SOUTHERN CITY

J. Fulmer Bright, Legionnaire mayor of Richmond, Va., is believed by his comrades of the American Legion at the old Southern capital to be the youngest Legionnaire to sit in the mayor's chair in a city of the size of Richmond, with its 200,000 population. Mayor Bright, who is only thirty-six years old, became a contender for that distinction when he defeated the man who had been mayor for 12 years.

The strenuous campaign came to a close recently. But there was no brick concealed under the hat in his path on All-Fools' day. He won a decisive victory over his opponent.

Mayor Bright was born in Richmond on November 17, 1887. He graduated from the Medical College of Virginia. After his graduation, he served for several years as professor of anatomy at that institution.

He did not confine his interests and activities to his professional duties.

J. Fulmer Bright.

From 1906 to 1917 he served in the Virginia National Guard. He was with the One Hundred and Sixteenth infantry in the Twenty-ninth division during the World war.

Since the war he has been commissioned a colonel of infantry. At present he is in command of the One Hundred and Eighty-third infantry in the Virginia militia.

His election to the mayoralty was not Colonel Bright's first venture in politics. He had represented Richmond in the state legislature in 1922 and 1923.

He knew what he was up against in entering the contest for the mayoralty with a man who had been so popular that he had held the office for 12 consecutive years. But this did not deter him.

He remembered the way the American doughboy had pushed forward with grim determination on the scarred battlefields of France. He decided that he would put into his campaign the same kind of push and driving force. So he entered the lists as the champion of the younger generation. And April Fool's day belied its name and brought to him the greatest political honor of his career.

The mayor has been a very active and loyal member of Richmond post No. 1, of the American Legion. His first expression upon being informed of the high honor which had come to him was:

"I am indeed proud of the privilege of being the humble instrument whereby this distinction is brought to a member of the American Legion."

Education Week to Be Observed November 17-23

"American Education week," conceived by the American Legion in 1921 at the annual meeting of the National Education association and observed annually since that time by Presidential proclamation, will be observed this year the week of November 17-23, inclusive.

The program of education week for this year will deal with the seven phases of national education held to be most imperative to the best interests of the country by the American Legion, the National Education association and the United States bureau of education, the organizations sponsoring the movement. The program for the week embraces: Constitution day, Patriotism day, School and Teacher day, Literacy day, Physical Education day, Community day and For God and Country day.

Determined to Check Un-American Propaganda

The Americanism division of the American Legion at national headquarters recently issued a statement in which it expressed itself as determined to stamp out all seditious, un-American and unpatriotic propaganda disseminated by pacifist organizations such as the "Women's International League for Peace and Freedom." The particular propaganda that aroused the Legion's declaration was printed in a booklet entitled, "America Menaced by Militarism," and read as follows: "Go to war if you want to, but know this: we have pledged ourselves not to give you our children, not to encourage or nurse your soldiers, not to knit a sock or roll a bandage or drive a truck or make a war speech or buy a bond!"

Floating Islands

Currents in the great rivers of western Asia undercut and separate from shore huge slices of tropical jungle, the heavy, far-reaching roots of the trees and dense vegetation binding the islands together and holding considerable quantities of soil as they are carried out to sea for hundreds of miles.

All Nations Chew Gum

The gum-chewing habit encircles the globe. The American soldiers introduced gum to the soldiers of the other nations engaged in the World war, who, in turn, took it to their countries. In this way chewing gum is now known in practically every country which has contact with the world.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

by MARY GRAHAM BONNER

MADAME SUMMER

Madame Summer was dressed most beautifully. It is true she did not wear the gay, fluffy costumes that Mistresses Springtime wore.

She was fond of color though. Oh, yes, she wore a beautiful costume of gold and dull green. And upon her head were entwined wreaths of golden red and asters and at her waist she wore a bunch of ex-eyed daisies or Black-eyed Susans, as they were also called.

She was speaking to the Breeze Brothers.

"I am feeling sleepy today," she said. "I feel like taking a little nap."

"You know often on a summer afternoon I feel just this way."

"Yes, I feel just as though I would like to take a nap and let the sun make me feel warm and as though I were covered with a blanket."

"The sun is always willing to act as a blanket for my summer afternoon nap."

"But if it wouldn't be too much for you, Breeze Brothers, as long as you say you feel like playing a bit, I wonder if you would sing for me?"

"Oh, we'd love to sing for you," the Breeze Brothers said. "We will sing softly so as to lull you asleep and so as to make you have a pleasant nap and a good rest."

"That is so nice of you," said Madame Summer.

"Perhaps," the Breeze Brothers said, "some of the bumblebees and the humming birds and some others of

"I Am Feeling Sleepy Today."

Mother Nature's Out-of-Doors family will sing too—maybe they will join in our lullaby song."

"Oh, how beautiful that would be," said Madame Summer.

Then the Breeze Brothers spoke to the bumblebees and the humming birds and some of the others of Mother Nature's family and asked them if they, too, would join in the low, soft lullaby which they were going to sing while Madame Summer took a summer afternoon nap.

They all said they would be delighted to do this.

So they all sang very softly and Mr. Sun spread his warm blanket over Madame Summer and as she dozed and slept this was the song which soothed her and made her dreams so pleasant:

Gently, oh gently, oh gently we sing. It is summer time now, it is long past spring. Our dear Madame Summer is with us to stay. Until autumn arrives to drive her away.

Oh, we love Madame Summer, she makes us feel warm. Around her the birds, flowers and bees all do swarm. We feel very happy when she is with us. We feel so pleasant and we just couldn't fuss.

Dream sweet dreams, Summer dear. We'll wait over you here. We'll sing for you now as we sleep. And our voices will sound low and deep.

The birds, bees and all have come to join in this song and to hum. Their music for you as we sing for you too. Dear Madame Summer, we love you, we do.

Madame Summer had a beautiful nap. And all the people that day said: "What a lovely summer afternoon. It is so quiet, so dreamy and so warm and sunny and soothing. The humming of the bees and the voices of some of the birds and the gentle breezes make such a wonderful summer afternoon."

"A summer afternoon such as this is so perfect a thing."

"It almost seems as though the whole world were taking a nap and dreaming sweet summer dreams."

But they did not know that it was all because Madame Summer was napping and that she was being sung to as she slept.

That was what made the afternoon have such a beautiful, sleepy summery feeling:

Simplicity Itself

When little Percy arrived at school on the opening day he carried the following note to the teacher:

"Dear Teacher: Our little Percy is a very sweet child, but extremely nervous and delicate. If he seems naughty at times—please punish the boy next to him and that will frighten him so he will be good."

He Didn't Mind

"Don't mind, Charlie, don't mind," said a sympathetic little girl to her five-year-old brother, who had been chastised by their mother.

"I didn't," sobbed the little fellow, "as that's why I gotlicked."

INVITING DISHES

In these days of outings when a day autoing through the beautiful country gives us an appetite for all good food, the lunch basket is an important factor on a trip. The following are a few suggestions which may be helpful:

Chicken and Nut Sandwiches.—Chop fine cold roast chicken, using such bits as are unavailable for other use. Mix with an equal part of finely minced celery, a generous amount of salad dressing and such seasonings as one likes. Spread on buttered bread.

Fig and Sardine Sandwiches.—Take equal quantities of chopped hard-cooked eggs and skinned boned sardines. Season with salt, mustard and any other seasoning liked, adding a bit of lemon juice. Spread on fresh crackers and serve at once sandwich fashion.

Russian Egg Sandwiches.—Take four hard-cooked eggs, chopped and mixed with one-fourth of a cupful of thick mayonnaise, one tablespoonful of chili sauce, one-fourth teaspoonful of salt and a little onion juice. Mix well and spread on buttered bread.

Bacon and Cheese Sandwiches.—Spread buttered slices of bread with grated cheese, add a layer of fried bacon, which has been cut very thin, cover with a leaf of lettuce and another buttered slice of bread and serve at once.

Potato Salad.—Cut up a pint of cold boiled potatoes into small dice, add one small onion, finely minced, a diced cucumber and a handful of blanched and shredded almonds. Mix with a highly seasoned mayonnaise, adding more seasoning, as the potato takes a good deal to make it palatable. Put into a carton or jar, after mixing well. When serving add a cupful of whipped, slightly sour, cream.

A delicious dessert, which is easy to prepare, is cup cakes, whose centers have been removed and the cavity filled with whipped cream. Crushed berries with the cream makes a change and is even more delicious.

AGRICULTURE

Many a man is known by the way he treats his horses on the hot days of August.

TODAY WE CELEBRATE

ABOLITION RIOTS.

The first of the anti-abolition riots that followed the organization of the American Anti-Slavery Society in 1833, broke out 90 years ago today, and for three days and nights the rioters worked their will in the city of Brotherly Love.

Fifty houses inhabited by negroes were attacked by the mob, and many of them were destroyed, while the blacks suffered severely at the hands of the mob. In Boston, Alton, Ill., and scores of other cities riots afterwards occurred, resembling in many respects the Draft Riots in N. Y. 30 years later.

For several years "abolitionists" were considered in the same category with "infidels," and as something to be despised. Says Paine, in his "Mark Twain," to stone out of the community.

Even children held the name in horror, as something less than human, something with claws, perhaps with a tail.

EXECUTIONS.

The first private execution of the death penalty in England took place 56 years ago today, when Thomas Wells was hanged for the murder of a railway station agent. The last public execution in England took place a few months before, when Michael Barrett, a Fenian was put to death for complicity in an explosion plot. Up to Wells's execution, the execution of the death penalty in England, as in most other countries, was considered a public affair, calculated to impress other malefactors with the majesty of the law. Many people predicted that private executions would result in an increase of capital crimes, but the reverse was true, and among nearly all enlighten-

QUEEN ELIZABETH'S SILK STOCKINGS

Up to the time of Henry VIII Stockings were made out of ordinary cloth, and we are informed that "the king's own were formed of a yard-wide taffeta." A few pairs of silk stockings made their way to England from Spain, but they were of great rarity.

It is related that in the second year of the reign of Queen Elizabeth, her silk woman, Mistress Montague, presented her Majesty with a pair of silk stockings for a new year's gift. As the queen had never worn silk before she, after wearing them a few days, called Mistress Montague and expressed her gratitude and satisfaction with them, asking at the same time where she had procured them and if a further supply could be had. Mistress Montague then informed the queen that she had them made purposely for her majesty, promising to make some more. From that time to her death the queen wore silk stockings in preference to those made of cloth.

LUCKY STRIKE

Cleanliness and Care in Manufacture

Every Lucky Strike factory is a model of sanitation. Read how Alfred W. McCann, the noted food expert describes one of our factories: "White walls and ceilings, floors as clean as freshly chiseled marble, cutting machines and wrapping machines that take away from the human hand all detail and leave nothing to the human supervision but the watchfulness of trained eyes."

Facts About Taxes on Cigarettes

WE call particular attention to the statements made in the advertisement adjoining this editorial column.

This advertisement, the purpose of which is to win new friends for Lucky Strike cigarettes, incidentally emphasizes the matter of high taxes on cigarettes.

To those who are intimate with such matters there is, of course, no surprising statement made.

To the general public, though, we believe it will be surprising to learn that nearly half of what they pay for cigarettes goes to the government for taxes.

The internal revenue stamp on a package of twenty Lucky Strike cigarettes costs you six cents. On a tin of one hundred the revenue stamp costs you thirty cents.

So nearly fifty cents out of every dollar you spend for cigarettes is spent by you for taxes.

This is certainly the heaviest tax on an article of daily and universal consumption.

The Tobacco Industry and Taxes

The aggregate tax paid by the tobacco business is with one exception, income taxes, the largest item of internal revenue the federal government receives. Last (fiscal) year it amounted to $300,014,050.84.

Of this enormous amount of money the cigarette industry paid $182,715,735.93, or nearly two-thirds of the total tax paid by the entire tobacco business.

The immediately important point of the foregoing is the following: We believe you will appreciate that when nearly fifty cents of every dollar paid by you for cigarettes goes to the government, you must receive in cigarettes a value in return for your money that is rarely given in any commodity.

That the public generally appreciates this great value is shown by the enormous increase in the consumption of cigarettes.

Our reasons for this tax free offer

We know this offer induces men to try Lucky Strikes—it "Wins New Friends."

We know that a large percentage of those who get acquainted with Lucky Strikes adopt them.

This isn't philanthropy nor propaganda—just good business, as you'll agree.

The offer is limited. We cannot afford to keep it up.

We make it sensationally generous so as to attract attention.

We are not giving money away for the offer accomplishes its purposes: Lucky Strike "Wins New Friends." Our volume increases.

Super-quality

It is only by immense volume that we can produce such an aristocratic cigarette as Lucky Strike at such a democratic price.

Its quality is supreme because it has that costly, extra process, toasting, which improves the flavor and adds to the taste of even the finest tobaccos that are used in Lucky Strikes.

We urge you to participate in this offer—we want you to get acquainted with Lucky Strikes.

We know a trial will make you a permanent customer of ours.

Keeping Station Open at Hurley

Public Service Commission Finds that Village is Growing and State Receipts Exceed Expenses. Railroad Station Must Be Maintained.

Judge James Jenkins, who appeared before the Public Service Commission sometime ago on behalf of residents of Hurley in opposition to the application of the New York, Ontario & Western Railroad Company for consent to discontinue its station there, has received a copy of the opinion of the Commission on which it based its recent finding denying the consent and holding that the station must be maintained.

The opinion of the commission is as follows:

Case No. 1846.—In the matter of the application of New York, Ontario and Western Railway Company, for consent to discontinue by said company of its railroad station at Hurley, Ulster county, N. Y.

From Chief Engineer. July 23, 1924.

To the Commission.

Re-Report of hearing held May 13, 1924.

Appearances: C. L. Andrus, attorney, for New York, Ontario and Western Railway Company; James Jenkins, attorney, for residents of Hurley in opposition.

Petitioner's Case.

On behalf of the petitioner it was shown that during the year 1923, 180 less than carload shipments were received at this station, from which was derived a revenue of $175.43, that the total number of carload shipments received was 17, from which a revenue of $2,000.94 was derived; that 21 less than carload shipments were forwarded, the charges on which were $49.77; that 5 carload shipments were forwarded, on which the charges were $338.46; that the total ticket sales were $238; that the total revenue for the year was $3,102.90; that of this amount approximately $1,343.35 accrued to the New York, Ontario and Western Railway Company; that Hurley is located approximately 3 miles south of Kingston; that there is a state road connecting Hurley and Kingston; that buses are operated between these points; that for the first four months of 1924 there has been an increase of 3 carload shipments over the similar period of 1923; that the discontinuance of the Hurley station as an agency would not interfere with carload shipments; that to maintain the agency cost $1,331.83; that the discontinuance of the agent would save $1,000 per annum.

Opposition's Case.

On behalf of those in opposition it was shown that Hurley is what may be termed a suburb of Kingston; that there is a considerable territory tributary to Hurley men over to farming; that on account of the grades leading away from the Kingston station only two (2) tons can be handled by a team while from the Hurley station from three to four tons may be hauled; that there has been an increase in shipments received at Hurley on account of cooperative buying; that new dwellings are being erected in Hurley; that there are approximately 300 living within a mile of the station; that on account of the first train in the morning arriving at Kingston at 1:15 o'clock, it is not used by school children; that certain fruit orchards are being developed which will later increase the shipments from the station.

By a representative of the Express Company it was shown that the revenue from 586 shipments was $631.12.

This application concerns a border-line case as to whether the agency should be discontinued or continued. The revenue received is in excess of the expenses by a reasonable amount. The community served is not on the decline, but rather on the increase, even though such increase is small. It is true that the village is served by bus lines, the improved highway passing directly through it. This undoubtedly has its effect upon the passenger business of the railroad. Similarly, the use of private automobiles and trucks has an effect on both passenger and freight business. However, in the course of the hearings it was developed that the rates on freight shipments from New York city to Kingston are less than those to Hurley. What effect this may have on the business done at Hurley is conjectural, but it seems reasonable to conclude that it has an effect. These rates are interstate and the situation is due undoubtedly to the competitive nature of Kingston, served as it is by water and the New York Central Railroad. The distance on the latter is less than via the New York, Ontario and Western. It is my opinion that the business done at Hurley is sufficient to warrant the retention of an agent, and I recommend that the petition be denied, but that it be provided that the matter may be reopened after the close of the present year if the company should be so disposed.

C. R. VANNEMAN, Chief Engineer.

Falls Follow Mail Lessons

Dancing Masters Deplore Mail Instruction for Good Reason—Opposed to Mixing Whisky With Dancing.

By Telegraph to The Freeman. New York, Aug. 13.—"Cleaner positions" on the ball room floor, no mixing of drinking and dancing and better and slower music.

The International Association of Masters of Dancing, in convention here today, believe these things to be the needs of the hour in the world of terpsichore, judging from expressions of delegates from all over the country.

"I believe the reformers are justified in complaining of the dance today," said Edward S. Hurst, chairman of the normal school committee of the association. "People have been mixing whisky with dancing for so many seasons they do not know how to dance properly."

The dancing masters condemned the "bootleg dance" and the "post-office dance." The "bootleg dance" it was explained, can be determined by his gay abandon, his suggestiveness and disregard of who's who and "what's what" in terpsichore. The "post-office" dancer is the person who learned "stepping" by mail. "Lessons by mail," said one of the delegates, "will not keep you from falling down on the floor."

Besides, the dancing instructors confide, the correspondence clutched looks too much like rural free delivery for a fashionable ball room floor.

"You bet I did. Well, there ought to be some improvement in twenty years. I see they got a couple of new buildings abutting the forum."

SCHOOL DAYS

Something to Think About

By F. A. WALKER

A PRICELESS TREASURE

WITHIN your house of clay there is a rare treasure, worth more to you than all the wealth of the world. This remarkable jewel, which you have never seen, is you, yourself, hidden all the time from your most searching gaze.

Even by looking into a mirror, you can not glimpse its form or discern its beauty, though at every moment of your life you are conscious of its existence.

This wonderful gem, this spark of enduring vitality, controls your thoughts, stirs your emotions and bestows happiness or wretchedness. It leads you to destiny. In the twinkling of an eye it is capable of arousing the fondest love or the most despicable hate.

It may be generous or selfish, noble or mean, brave or cowardly, but whatever its nature, its erratic moods are beyond all human understanding, never comprehended except darkly, from one moment to another.

To know yourself is to spend a lifetime in the quest and fall at the end, yet the quest is worth making.

You may be among the world's greatest philosophers, but be as ignorant of yourself as a wooden spoon. You cannot say with certainty whether in battle you would be a coward or hero, forgive an arch enemy or destroy him, hide yourself if suddenly impoverished, or face the fears of former associates.

Some time ago, a woman who had shot lions in the jungles of Africa, fainted before a group of smiling friends who had come to hear her lecture. Their beaming faces and shining eyes were more overpowering to her than the crouches and charges of snarling wild beasts.

Her soul was suddenly palsied, her house of clay crumbled.

You are robust and lustrious today, but tomorrow you may be weak and dull.

The dominating power within you has temporarily lost its force.

Without it you are nothing but dust, blown hither and thither by the winds.

Judgment cannot be sure, faith cannot be strong, nor life itself made to function as it should, unless the jewel you are carrying with you shall be kept as clear and bright as the stars of the firmament.

Reflections of a Bachelor Girl

By HELEN ROWLAND

THERE are only 13 original jokes, but every man seems to fancy that he married one of them.

Every woman knows that a man is a little bit out of his mind when he proposes marriage to her, but her vanity won't permit her to admit it, by offering him a chance to escape.

A man never suffers until love is quite dead; but it is the death throes of a romance which torture a woman. After the funeral, she can be so resigned and serene that she almost enjoys her "grief."

Why will a college boy waste weeks in working up an effective "line," when the little ones, "How beautiful you are!" and "I love you," which grandfather used, are still the most thrilling in the English tongue?

As long as a man can make a woman cry, he can dictate terms to her; but no sane man was ever so foolish as to argue with a smiling woman.

When a man can't find anything around the house to improve, criticize or "sympathize," for a whole week, he begins to think that his "morale" is weakening.

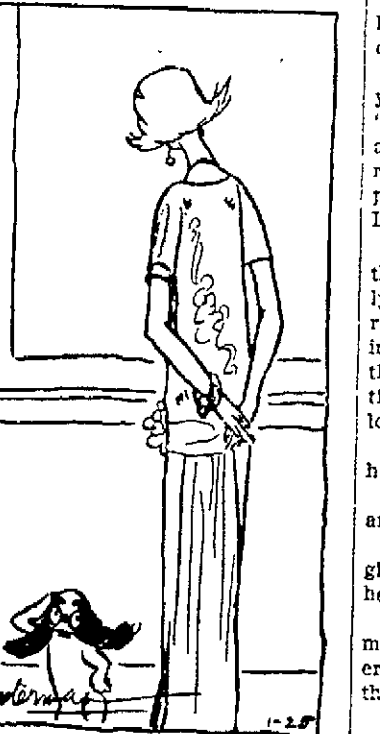

Silence is the lace curtain, through which a wise woman peeps out at men, without permitting them to see her undraped thoughts or to satisfy their curiosity about mental furnishings.

Marriage is the point at which some women stop kissing—and begin hissing.

An innocent young man should be perfectly sure of his heart before he gives it into a strong woman's keeping. In these days, he may never get it back again!

MAN OF ONE-MULE POWER

By CLARISSA MACKIE

Helen Pierson entered the post office, thankful that Jacob Frume, the postmaster, had recently put in a partition down the length of his general store, so that the post office was separated from the groceries and other wares. What Helen disliked about the Helen post office was the little knot of loafers usually congregated about the stove in winter or the front stoop in summer. She had always chosen to do her errands at times when everyone in the village was working, or supposed to be engaged in toil of some sort. Other people, too, had disliked the old method, so that Jacob, anxious to please his patrons, had put in a partition, leaving a wide opening in the middle. It was like a double store, with two doors. Helen came in this spring afternoon, called for her mail, looked the letters over at the little desk, and incidentally overheard a conversation carried on in the grocery section.

"One-mule power! That's what I sez, and I stick to it. Billy Kent's a dreamer and he'll never get nowhere. Most young fellers have a horse or a automobile or stuhlin', but what's Billy got?" the speaker paused dramatically.

"One dog-gone mule!" drawled another voice.

"Right. One dog-gone mule—he won't never get nowhere."

"Tough on the gal who's waitin' for him to make a fortin' before he marries her," offered another speaker.

Helen's cheeks were burning as she bent over her letters. She heard the girl behind the letter boxes, scurrying around into the store to warn the gossip, and it was characteristic of Helen that as a sudden silence fell on the place, she calmly gathered up her letters and parcels and walked into the other department where she leisurely purchased a spool of thread and some needles. All the time she was conscious that the loungers were drifting out of the place through some back entrance.

"Miserable curs," she thought as she walked down the street toward home. As she passed the cross street, she glanced up the hill to where the Kent place straggled over many acres of hill, meadow and lowland. Billy Kent had inherited it from his parents, and was trying to eke a living from it. His training at the agricultural college did not seem to help him in cultivating the farm. He just seemed to fuss around from morning till night, contented with whatever he had accomplished during the day. As the gossip had said, the one piece of livestock consisted of a splendid mule.

Helen was engaged to marry Billy Kent, so she was interested in everything he did, and particularly in the future which they were to share together. After she had taken her packages into the house, Helen changed into some riding clothes and went to the barn for the horse, Dixie. Mr. Pierson had raised Dixie from a colt, and took as much pride in the spirited bay as Helen herself.

"I am going up to see Billy, father," she explained as he came around the corner of the barn.

"Well, it's leap year, daughter, I reckon you know what you're about," he joked.

"Father," Helen hesitated, playing with the bride reins, "would you ever think of Billy as being a one-mule power man?"

Their eyes, so much alike, met and held steadily the straight, dark glance of the Pierson tribe.

"One-mule power, Nellie? Well, if you mean pure mulishness, I'll say 'No' because he is open to reasonable argument, but if by mule-power you refer to kick-back, pulling power, pushing power, with pep put into it, I'll bet on Billy Kent."

"It's fine of you to root for Billy that way, father," Helen smiled sweetly. "But he doesn't seem to achieve results. He isn't farming it, or raising chickens or doing anything to make the place pay. When I try to question Billy, he just says, 'wait a bit longer.'"

"Ho—ho," laughed Mr. Pierson, heartily.

"So I thought I would just go up and have a little talk with him."

"That's right, talk it through, but give the lad credit for knowing what he's about."

"Thank you, father, you've cheered me wonderfully; your faith and mother's in Billy Kent, is almost greater than my own sometimes."

"Because you are impatient for him to succeed, and we are in no hurry for him to succeed and carry off our daughter," he told her as she rode away. At the gate she blew him a kiss and another one toward the window where her mother sat.

At the cross street she turned up the hill toward Kent's.

"One-mule power!" She found Billy at the back of the house, standing in the sloping yard, that afforded a view of much of the property. In the orchard a thrush was singing and the song was for them an accompaniment to the wonder of their meeting after a brief absence.

"I am honored, dearest," declared Billy, leaning against Dixie, and holding fast to Helen's hand. "Fair ladies do not call on me as a rule—of course Phoebe comes to do the washing, and Indian Annie tries to sell me dandelion greens picked in my own pastures, but that's about all."

"Billy, dear, I want to ask you something important," began Helen. "Do you mind telling me just what

Soft Drinks Traced to American Revolution

There is an interesting story about how the first soft drinks happened to be made.

Back in the days of the American Revolution a man named Townsend Speakman was running a little drug store in Philadelphia. He supplied medicines for Washington's army, and was pretty well known. One day, says a writer in the Progressive Grocer, a doctor asked him to fill a prescription of carbonated water. Druggist Speakman succeeded in compounding the concoction. The doctor's patient liked the new water. Soon, one patient after another passed the word around and, before long, Druggist Speakman had lots of calls for the new medicine water.

But Druggist Speakman was a keen business man and conceived the idea of favoring the medicine water with fruit juices to increase its popularity. The plan worked. Its popularity spread like wildfire. That was the beginning of the carbonated soft drink business.

The soft drink business has been growing ever since. Last year, for example, the people in the United States consumed 8,000,000 bottles of non-alcoholic beverages, an average of 75 bottles for every man, woman and child.

Scientist's Explanation by No Means Flattering

A spiritualist, who also was something of an orator, visited a town where a skeptical scientist lived, and delivered a lecture one afternoon, the lecturer's desire being to convert the scientist to his belief. The audience was large, including the scientist, who had attended by special invitation.

"The next day the spiritualist called on the scientist with hope that his effort had been successful. 'What did you think of my lecture?' he asked. 'Well,' said the scientist, 'I couldn't sleep last night at all, and I lay it to your talk.'"

The spiritualist was highly flattered. "I knew my argument would make you think," he said. "Is it not so?"

"I am not so certain about that. Whenever I sleep during the day I cannot sleep at night."—Los Angeles Times.

What Did Peggy Say?

In her "Memories," Katherine Tynan writes at some length of Dudley Hardy, the great Bohemian: "I can remember an evening when Dudley slipped the tablecloth off the table and was Maud Allen. In the midst of the delicious performance in came the stolid English cook. Later when, in the Irish way, I went to the kitchen fire to warm my feet, I said to her: 'Isn't Mr Hardy funny, cook?' 'Well, I did think so at first, mum,' she said, 'but now I've got used to him and I don't take no notice.' Once we came in to find Dudley in a desperate mood. There had been a terrible cheap French lamp in the dining room, all ornament, that gave a glaring unshaded light. We found it beautifully swathed in white silk and lace, looking all a lamp ought to look. But Dudley sat, his head in his hands, a guilty creature with a conviction of guilt. He had cut up some of Peggy's (his wife's) beautiful Paris lingerie to make the lamp-shade."

Tall London Towers

The campanile of Westminster cathedral is not the tallest tower in London, although it is 283 feet above the roadway, and the top of the tower is only seven feet short of twice the height of the Nelson column. The monument falls short of it by 110 feet, observes London Tit-Bits.

In the matter of altitude the campanile yields to the two towers above the houses of parliament, the clock tower being 320 feet and the Victoria tower 340 feet.

In bygone days the monument was a jumping-off place frequently resorted to by suicides until the gallery was inclosed in ironwork, and caging was similarly erected around the top of the York column following a case of suicide in 1850.

The last four received the same number of votes.—Kansas City Star.

Relic of Roman Era

Among the interesting curios to be found in the museum at Oxford, England, is a huge stone sack. It is carved as though from a man's back; it bears the mark of a rope which once encircled it in two places, and has the usual puckers at the mouth, where the string, once secured the opening. All over the stone can be seen the marks of the coarse sackling which once covered it. Its history is curious. Some years ago it was fished up in the Thames below London bridge, where it must have lain for centuries. Some workmen in the time of the Romans was carrying this sack of cement from a moat to the shore, when the burden slipped from his shoulders into the water. There, under the action of the water, it became solid and, as years passed away, the sack at last rotted off, leaving only the hardened cement within.

Dentistry in History

Records are incomplete, but it is known that the Romans used false teeth and possibly bridge work. The filling of teeth is of later date, a dental bibliography written in 1523 fixing the date of the introduction of this branch of the profession as about 900 A. D.

KINGSTON P. O. EMPLOYEES
TO PLAY NEWBURGH, AUG. 25

The Newburgh News says: Post Office employees are making ready to take another whaling from the Kingston Post Office employees, who recently defeated the Newburgh bunch 13 to 0. The up-river fellows then healed the sore spot by giving them a banquet. The Newburgh delegation came home determined to try their hand again, and challenged the Kingstonians to play them in this city on Monday, August 25, in the Recreation Park. The invitation was accepted with the suggestion that the challengers do a little practice before the meet. As the diamond is occupied evenings the game will be called at 4:30, and continue no longer than two hours.

FISHERMAN'S LUCK
DERESERTED BENN.

Corporal James Benn has returned from a fishing expedition to the Thousand Islands, at Tine Camp. The corporal, well known taxidermist and shoe salesman, is a veteran fisherman but had no luck except for three catches of horndace. The natives around that section claim that only the captains can catch the game fish. However, the corporal's friends are glad to know that he is back on the job again, with the Beck Hazard Company.

Financial and Commercial

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, Aug. 13.—The stock market made very little progress today, though a number of active stocks went through to new high prices for the year, and buying demand was nearly always sufficient to prevent any wide open breaks in prices.

Railway Steel Springs was again the feature of the railway equipment group with a rise of 4 points to 124½. Low priced rails like Missouri Pacific and St. Louis and San Francisco preferred started the advance in the rails today.

New York Central and Nickel Plate repeated their almost daily performance of establishing new high prices for 1924, the former at 110 and the latter at 116½.

The Pan-Americans were the only strong spot in the oils, though the Standard oils made a better showing than in the last two days and some of the independent oils regained a portion of their former losses.

Biscuit company stocks, including National and Loose Wiles, sold at higher prices than heretofore this year. Eastman Kodak responded to the ex-dividend and higher earnings. Western Union in a new forward movement duplicated the best previous record of the year. Texas Gulf Sulphur made a new high at 77 and American Telephone and Telegraph Company was active on reports of good success in the list of its last offerings of its stock to present stockholders.

Big Fleet to Fight Smugglers

Coast Guard Service Assembles 2300

Boats Including 20 Destroyers to Prevent Smuggling of Liquor, Narcotics and Aliens.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Aug. 13.—A "dry armada" of 320 boats with a combined manpower of 2,000 was being mobilized here today by the coast guard service to "adopt tactics of actual warfare against the rum fleet" operating off New York and the east coast.

"We expect to starve out the rum vessels within six or eight months," said Captain W. E. V. Jacobs, commandant of the coast guard in this district. "But it would not be wise for us to notify the enemy exactly when and where to expect."

When fully assembled the "dry armada" will be a formidable force. It will consist of 20 former navy minesweepers and more than 300 fast motor boats. An extra recruiting campaign was conducted and more than 2,000 experienced officers and men have signed up for terms ranging from one to three years.

Under the terms of the new treaty with Great Britain, British ships suspected of liquor smuggling may be searched and seized any place within an hour's sail of the American coast regardless of mileage. Operations also will be directed against narcotic and alien smuggling.

With enough boats to watch every vessel in the rum fleet, it was explained their source of supplies from American shores would be cut off.

MISS WILLIS MAKES IT THIRTEEN STRAIGHT.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Forest Hills, N. Y., Aug. 13.—Miss Helen Willis, woman national champion, went through her second round today, defeating Mrs. Helene Pollock Falk, of Elberon, N. J., in the women's tennis tournament 6-0, 6-0.

Two rounds were scheduled to be played today. The doubles championship also got underway. Miss Helen Willis and Mrs. George W. Wightman, the Olympic doubles champion, were the favorites.

Miss Mary K. Browne of Santa Monica, Cal., met Miss Penelope Anderson, of Richmond, Va., in another feature match.

Miss Willis was her brilliant self and broke Mrs. Falk's service in the opener for her thirteenth consecutive win of the tournament.

Helen was driving deep with her returns and blazing over her service and quickly ran ahead with a lead of 4 to 0 in games. She took the next, too, with the loss of only a single point to win the set 6-0.

Irwin's Promise With a String

Local Democrats construe Roscoe

Irwin's statement that he would accept the verdict of Monday's Democratic county convention and that no further action would be taken, to mean that he will not try to place a contesting set of delegates and alternates on the primary ballot. If he does that, the delegates and alternates elected Monday will be elected at the primary election without opposition.

Rumors that Irwin's statement meant that he intends to resign as chairman of the county committee were dispelled when it was learned that through a change of rules of the county committee a year ago, members of the county committee who were elected in the September primary last year will serve for two years.

The lease of life from the one year term is made possible through a change of rules of which county committee members say they were not aware when they approved the rules as presented, and a ruling by Attorney General Sherman that the election law providing for election of committeemen at spring primaries in presidential years did not mean what it said when a state convention should decide that county committee members should serve for one year, which was done by the last Democratic state convention.

Therefore, Irwin will retain his chairmanship. Should he be displaced in any way, he will wait a year, as he did before, and then resume control of the party which believed it took the first step to rid itself of his leadership at Monday's convention.

Slain Man's Wife May Be Exhumed

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 13.—Whether or not the body of Mrs. David M. Noble, wife of David M. Noble, well known real estate operator, who was slain as he entered his Somerville home last Friday, will be exhumed, was to be determined at a conference between Assistant District Attorney Bishop of Middlesex county and Dr. G. Burgess Magrath, medical examiner, today. Mrs. Noble died in April. Mrs. Noble was the sister of Dr. Thiersy, who is under arrest at the Massachusetts hospital charged with the murder of Noble. Authorities believe that the exhuming of the dead woman's body may reveal some facts which will be closely related to the murder of her husband.

Another arrest is expected in the case, according to Middlesex authorities. Finger prints have been discovered on the silverware, which was placed on a table in the dining room to give the impression that a "burglar" had been interrupted in his work by Noble's entrance. The finger prints have been photographed.

Sensational developments are expected within the next 24 hours that will have a decided bearing on the case.

Two Confessions In Murder Case

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Benton Harbor, Mich., Aug. 13.—In the county jail at St. Joseph today are Emilie Zupke, 24 year old factory hand; and his sweetheart, Florence McKinney, 19 year old daughter of a Royaltown township farmer.

Both by confession last night admitted the murder of Cora May Raber, 25 years old, rival of the McKinney girl, for the love of Zupke, according to authorities.

Zupke, according to his confession, choked the Raber girl to death as she rode by his side in his roadster. And driving at the wheel, sat Florence McKinney, an accomplice to the crime, she admits, officers state.

Two hours after Zupke confessed, the McKinney girl walked into the sheriff's office and calmly announced that she had been with Zupke when he had killed the Raber girl.

Pretty, bobbed haired, trim of figure and garbed in natty sport clothes, the McKinney girl made her confession to the sheriff without a quiver in her voice or a tear in her eye.

Miss McKinney told the authorities today she greatly feared Zupke. "I was afraid he would kill me as he had threatened," she said, "if I told anyone about the killing."

Miss McKinney said Zupke had told her some time ago about the Raber girl's condition—that she was expecting a baby. He apparently took the situation lightly at that time, according to the McKinney girl, for he also told her, she said, that he "had another girl in Bridgeport, Mich., who also was in the same condition."

Styles Lost His Diary.

George W. Styles of No. 131 Clinton avenue on Tuesday lost a small diary which he would like to recover on account of important records it contains.

Wonderful Piece of Luck

I was sitting on the back porch enjoying the soothing warmth of the sun on my rheumatic hands. The bright glare of sun prevented my reading, consequently I was holding the magazine between my face and the sun. Suddenly something struck the magazine and it dropped to the floor. It was a .22-caliber bullet. No report of a gun was heard and the bullet was spent. The magazine protected my face and eye.—Chicago Journal.

Obelisks Named

The name "Cleopatra's Needles" is improperly given to two famous obelisks erected by Thothmes III, at On (Heliopolis) about 1500 B. C., and brought to Alexandria by Augustus about 23 B. C., to add to the beauty of the city. One of these granite monoliths now stands on the Victoria embankment in London, while the other is in Central park, New York.

Cabinet Has Grown

When George Washington was President, there were five men sitting about the table with him as his first cabinet. Today when the Chief Executive calls his aides together there are ten occupying accredited department chairs. These departments are State, War, Navy, Treasury, Justice, Postoffice, Agriculture, Commerce, Labor and Interior.

"Heel of Achilles"

The Heel of Achilles refers to a vulnerable part. It is in allusion to the story that when Thetis, mother of Achilles, dipped him into the Styx to make him invulnerable, she held him by the heel so that the water did not touch it. Therefore his heel was the one spot in his body where he was vulnerable.

The principal attraction is the grand race meeting held on the downs, which is attended by hundreds of thousands of persons.

Yankees Are in Last Home Games

Series Will Keep Them Home Until September 7. Meeting Strong Contenders—Fight For Championship Also Severe in National League.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Aug. 13.—With their backs to the wall, the Yankees today opened their last home stand of the season, playing a series of games that will keep them busy in their own ball park until September 7. During this period they will be called on to face contender after contender in the American League race.

The Browns, four games back of first place, will be the first tribe the Yanks will have to meet, a double-header being on the boards for today. Manager George Sisler, of the Browns, has his team playing at top notch speed and is expected to try to "outhrow" the Yankees to death in today's struggle. The Yanks have not fared well against portside slingers this season.

The Yankees are practically tied with the leading Tigers, being only one point behind Detroit, with the Senators a game and a half in the rear. While the Yanks are meeting the Browns the Tigers will have easier prey in the Athletics, in seventh place, and the Cobblers are expected to make hay while the sun shines. If the Tigers can go through the east on this trip like they did on the last one they will go back home with a lead that will be hard to overcome.

The Senators also expect to gain ground at the expense of the Indians while the Yanks and Browns are in their death grapple.

While the fight is waxing hot in the American League the Giants also are meeting stern opposition today. They begin a four game series with the Pirates, who are now playing the best ball in the National League. The Giants have a lead of seven games. If the Pirates can win the majority of games from the Giants, New York will have a hard fight to the wire.

Two years ago the Pirates came to New York with a lead of seven games—the same number the Giants now enjoy—and had the pennant practically sewed up. The Giants tore into them, beat them five straight and soon galloped into the lead and another pennant.

Fandom is asking: "Will history repeat?"

FIRPO PRACTICING LEFT-HAND PUNCHES

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

White Sulphur Springs, N. Y., Aug. 13.—Luis Firpo today concentrated on left-hand punches, lack of which experts declare is his greatest weakness.

The "Wild Bull's" daily program is two rounds of sparring with Bill Tate, the giant negro, and two with Miguel Ferrara, another Argentinian.

Le Gendre Sets New World Mark

Robert Le Gendre, former Georgetown university star and now wearing the colors of the Newark (N. J.) A. C., sets a new world's record of 25 feet 6 inches in the broad-jump event of the pentathlon at the Olympic games in Colombes stadium.

Bob spent most of his energy in the broad jump and fell behind in the other four events, scoring third for the whole pentathlon. The photograph shows Le Gendre throwing the javelin.

The St. Louis Nationals top their league in double plays.

In the early days of baseball the team which first scored 21 runs won the game.

Earl Smith, catcher for the Boston Nationals, has been purchased by the Pittsburgh club.

Coffeyville resigned from the Southwestern league because of poor attendance at its games.

Hal Chase, once a star of the Chicago White Sox, is playing first base for a ball team in Jerome, Ariz.

Rollie "Bunlons" Zelder, former big leaguer, is now managing the Paris team in the East Texas league.

Bobby La Motte, former Griffman, is starring at shortstop for Memphis. He is being called the "best shortstop in the circuit."

Baltimore is not drawing so well. On July 4 in the morning only 3,500 saw the game with Reading and 5,000 in the afternoon.

Herbert Thomas, center fielder of the Daytona Baseball club of the Florida State league, has been sold to the Boston Nationals.

Gene Robertson, the young Brownie third sacker, has modeled his batting style on that of Sisler. He hits like his boss, only not so often.

The Athletics of Brooklyn, winners of the baseball championship in 1894 and 1895, went through the two seasons without sustaining a defeat.

Joe Oeschger, recently released by the Giants to the Louisville American association club, which he refused to join, has signed a Philly contract.

The uniform Babe Ruth has been wearing in a National Guard membership drive would have made a more profound impression seven years ago.

Pitcher Edward B. Ryan has been obtained by Vernon from Texarkana of the East Texas league in exchange for Pitchers Keck and R. Brumfield and a cash consideration.

Ted Blankenship, Chicago White Sox pitcher, has been indefinitely suspended because of alleged differences with Manager Evers. The hurler has gone to his home in Oklahoma.

In 1923 no fewer than 3,000,000 persons attended football games, 20,000,000 baseball games; over 5,000,000 boxing matches, and 18,000,000 track and field meets, in the United States.

Owner Borchert of Milwaukee, denies that Ted Jourdan, first baseman, loaned the Brewers early in the season by Minneapolis, is to be recalled. Borchert says Kelley told him he could keep the player throughout the season.

Wade Killefer, manager of the Seattle team, is after the services of George Oeschger, former St. Mary's hurler, and a brother of Joe Oeschger. George at present is chucking for the Anaconda team of the Copper league. He had a trial with the Pirates a year ago.

Little Mike McNally

Once Batted for Ruth

Ball players often cling to a simple incident as the high note of their careers. Mike McNally of the Yankees whose weak batting keeps him from being a big league star, looks upon the time when he batted for Babe Ruth as the crowning feature of his career. It was in 1917 when Ruth and McNally were playing for the Red Sox that Mike swung for the Bambino. "I didn't make a hit," says the infielder, "but the incident is something I'm always going to be proud of."

Industrial Game Ends in a Tie

U. & D. and K. G. and E., Leading Teams in Industrial League, Battle to a Tie at the Athletic Field Tuesday Evening.

One of the most interesting Industrial League contests of the season was staged Tuesday evening, at the Athletic Field, when the U. & D. Railroad team battled the K. G. and E. team to a tie in a lively game. The final score was seven all.

In the final inning, the K. G. & E. team knocked out six hits for a total of four runs, putting them in the lead 7 to 6. In the Railroaders' last inning one run tied the struggle. The Railroaders have not been defeated this season and the Kingston Gas & Electric team are the runners up.

K. Houghtaling was on the mound for the U. & D. and allowed 13 hits. Doyle did the hurling for the K. G. & E. nine and was touched for eight safeties. Six errors for the Electric Light team against two for the opponents, gave the league leaders an advantage.
